Case Study: Using the Present Simple for Scheduled Events

Consider a scenario where you have a weekly meeting at work every Monday at 10:00 am. You can say, "I have a meeting every Monday at 10:00 am," to describe this regular event. However, if someone asks you what you are doing at 10:00 am on Monday, you can respond with, "I am in a meeting," because the meeting is part of your regular schedule.

Common Mistakes and Corrections

One of the most common mistakes made when using the present simple tense is incorrect subject-verb agreement. For example, saying "I goes to school" instead of "I go to school." It's essential to remember that the verb must agree with the subject in number (singular or plural).

Correcting Mistakes

Incorrect: "My friends goes to the movies every Friday." Correct: "My friends go to the movies every Friday." This correction ensures that the verb "go" agrees with the plural subject "friends."
