

Student Name: _____

Class: _____

Due Date: _____

Introduction

Welcome to this worksheet on finding evidence in non-fiction texts. In this worksheet, you will learn how to find and analyze evidence in non-fiction texts. This skill is essential for evaluating information, making informed decisions, and supporting your arguments with credible evidence.

What is Evidence?

Evidence is information or data used to support a claim or argument. Examples of evidence include statistics, expert opinions, primary sources, and secondary sources.

Match the following types of evidence with their definitions:

1. Statistical evidence: _____
2. Expert opinion: _____
3. Primary source: _____
4. Secondary source: _____

Evaluating Evidence

It is essential to evaluate the credibility and relevance of evidence to determine its usefulness in supporting a claim. Questions to ask when evaluating evidence include:

- Who is the author?
- What is the purpose of the text?
- Is the evidence relevant to the claim?

Evaluate the following evidence:

1. A statistic from a reputable source
2. A quote from an expert in the field
3. A primary source document

Identifying Bias

Bias is a prejudice or partiality that influences the presentation of information. Examples of bias include emotional language, selective presentation of facts, and omission of contradictory evidence.

Identify the bias in the following texts:

1. A news article with a clear opinion
2. A social media post with selective facts
3. An advertisement with emotional language

Finding Evidence in Non-Fiction Texts

Tips for finding evidence in non-fiction texts include:

- Read the text carefully
- Identify the main claim or argument
- Look for supporting evidence

Find evidence in the following non-fiction text:

1. A passage from a history book
2. An article from a science magazine
3. A chapter from a self-help book

Analyzing Evidence

Questions to ask when analyzing evidence include:

- What is the evidence saying?
- Is the evidence relevant to the claim?
- Is the evidence credible?

Analyze the following evidence:

1. A graph showing a trend
2. A quote from an expert
3. A primary source document

Using Evidence to Support Claims

It is essential to use evidence to support claims to make your arguments more convincing and credible. Tips for using evidence include:

- Choose relevant and credible evidence
- Present the evidence clearly and concisely
- Address potential counterarguments

Use evidence to support the following claim:

1. Climate change is a serious issue
2. Vaccines are effective in preventing diseases
3. Reading is essential for academic success

Creating a Persuasive Text

Tips for creating a persuasive text include:

- Use evidence to support your claim
- Address potential counterarguments
- Use clear and concise language

Create a persuasive text using evidence to support your claim:

1. Write a paragraph arguing for or against a topic
2. Use at least two types of evidence to support your claim

Review and Reflection

Review the key concepts learned in this worksheet:

- What is evidence?
- How to evaluate evidence
- How to find evidence in non-fiction texts
- How to analyze evidence
- How to use evidence to support claims

Reflect on what you have learned:

- What did you learn about finding evidence in non-fiction texts?
- How can you apply this skill in your everyday life?

Conclusion

Summary of the key concepts learned in this worksheet:

- Evidence is essential for evaluating information and supporting claims
- Evaluating evidence is crucial to determine its credibility and relevance
- Finding evidence in non-fiction texts requires careful reading and analysis
- Using evidence to support claims makes arguments more convincing and credible

Final thoughts: Finding evidence in non-fiction texts is a critical thinking skill that is essential for evaluating information, making informed decisions, and supporting your arguments with credible evidence. Remember to always evaluate the credibility and relevance of evidence, and use it to support your claims in a clear and concise manner.